The Head Office of State Archives

Reconstitution of the Memory of Poland

International Programme Reconstitution of the Memory of Poland

PROGRAMME ORIGINS

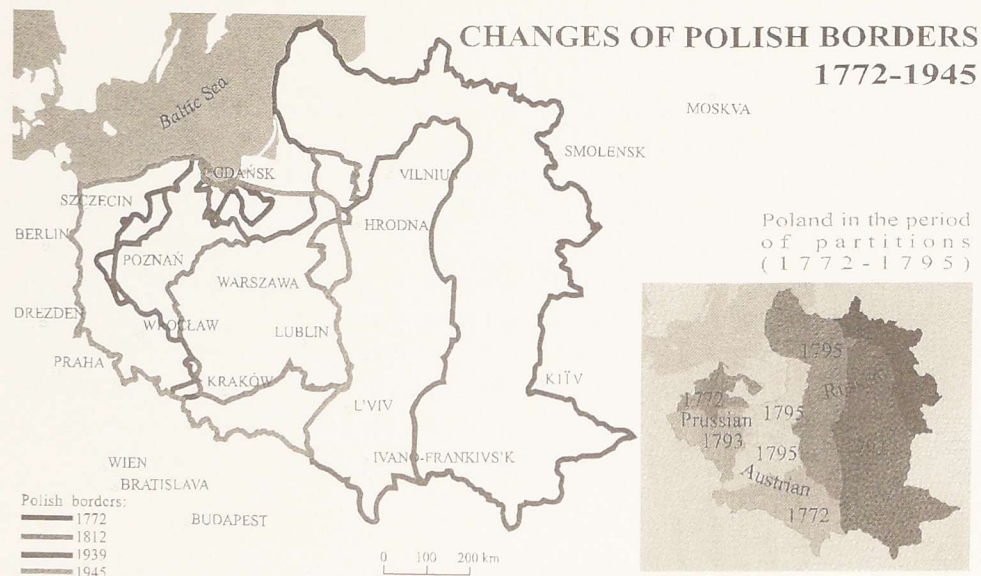

The Polish archive holdings belong to the most destroyed and scattered archive holdings of the world. It is to a significant extent due to the loss of independence in the years 1772-1795 and many successive wars, with the front lines passing through the Polish regions. Successive waves of emigration, as a result of which groups of citizens, actively engaged to regain independence, were taking up this activity benefiting from the hospitality of other states and nations, also contributed to this dispersion of archive materials. These emigration organisations were, in a way, substituting the structures of the non-existing state, taking over their functions. Therefore, the documentation they created is of a great importance for the knowledge about and studies on historical processes. The changes of state borders in the 20th c. also significantly influenced the state of the Polish archive holdings. The state, reborn in 1918, after the last World War emerged in a completely new territorial shape.

The fact of dispersion and destruction of archive holdings, reaching up to the extreme of 90% as in the case of losses that central state archives suffered as a result of the World War II, was revealed on an international forum thanks to the survey prepared on the request of UNESCO by the International Council on Archives in 1997. The survey aimed at the recognition of the problem of losses and transfers of archive holdings on an international scale, and, what seems of a great importance, the recognition of chances and possibilities to solve the accumulated problems.

The Polish data made the greatest impression as compared to responses having come from all the continents. The scale of the problem in regard to Poland was not realized even by the circles of professionals.

The above justified the decision to prepare a pioneer and pilot programme called Reconstitution of the Memory of Poland, based on the knowledge and skills of Polish archivists, and as a sign of solidarity among all the circles of archivists. The Programme was approved by the Council of Europe (Administrative Agreement 1201/439 of June 24, 1998).

The moral grounds for the project are obvious; it is to create the opportunity for the nation to become acquainted with the sources to its own history.

OBJECTIVE

The fundamental objective of the programme is to provide information about the sources on the history of Poland and the Polish nation over the period from 18th to 20th century, which is to contribute to obtaining replacement materials for documents irrevocably lost by Poland or scattered in other countries' holdings. Apart from its fundamental objective, the Programme is also to provide knowledge about the technical and organizational capabilities of creating a shared repository of (meta)data gathered from different archives.

That project was of a pilot character. The technology applied, thanks to its wide-spread promotion, has a chance to become an instrument used in many countries, own archival holdings of which are not sufficient to reconstruct the representation of their own history. There are many such countries, both in Europe, and elsewhere, in particular, in regions which used to be colonised by European powers.

EXECUTION

By now archive searches have been carried out in the following countries: Austria, France, Germany, Italy, Republic of Moldova, Russia, Ukraine. Thanks to archive searches in the central archives of these countries, Poland obtained the descriptions of over 2000 archival fonds and collections (about 3100 records in the data base) from 26 archives.

RESULTS

Results of archive searches carried out by Polish and foreign archivists are organized in the format of a database entitled Reconstitution of the Memory of Poland. On 16 March 2004, during the third meeting of the Council of Europe CD Cult Bureau, the representatives of The Head Office of State Archives in Poland officially inaugurated the availability of the RMP database in the Internet. The above-mentioned database is available on the website www.archiwa.gov.pl

PARTIES INVOLVED

The Programme has been carried out by archivists from Poland and cooperating countries. It is being financed by funds provided by the Council of Europe, Federal Republic of Germany, Austria, France and Poland. The Programme has also received support from Die Robert Bosch Stiftung GmbH and The Leopold Kronenberg Foundation. The Internet version of the database has been created with the help of Warsaw University's Interdisciplinary Centre for Mathematical and Computational Modelling.

THE EXHIBITION

The main goal of the exhibition is to present outcome of the Programme Reconstitution of the Memory of Poland. The exhibition presents copies of the most important archival documents from the archival holdings of countries participating in this Programme. Our foreign partners from Austria, France, Germany, Italy, Russia and Ukraine selected the objects, preserved at these archives at which queries in search for Polonica were being carried out. These documents are specific for both attractive external form and historical significance of events.
